After the floods and strong winds came through, Ekstedt tree services, stays busy from sunrise to sunset. Fallen trunks blocked driveways, broken limbs hung over roofs, and whole trees lay across yards and roads. Every call seemed urgent, and he moved from one property to the next with his saws, ropes, and crew, helping people clean up and get back to normal.

Even when the weather cleared, the work did not slow down. New jobs kept coming in as neighbors saw the damage around town and needed trees removed, trimmed, or made safe again. For him, it was a long season of hard work, tired hands, and steady pride, because after the storm, he was one of the people everyone depended on
